Ann Cavanaugh Bio

Ann Cavanaugh is the Director and Co-Producer of Currach Productions, a creator of original works - both written and visual art, and a Jungian oriented psychotherapist.

Ann is also Artistic Director for the Corralitos Theatre, in Corralitos, California. The daughter of Irish Catholic parents she grew up outside Boston and has always held a deep fascination and love for the magic of myth and storytelling.

As a psychotherapist for over 20 years Ann has an appreciation for the ways in which our personal life circumstances form the script through which we live. She recognizes theatre not as a world apart, but rather a point of intersection of the personal and social spheres.

For Ann the theatre is a canvas upon which the human psychological and political experience can be laid open and she strives to create work that will captivate the imagination and provoke conversation.

Ann and Donal became acquainted through working together in the summer of 2006 on John Synge's Riders to the Sea and In the Shadow of the Glen which Ann directed and co-produced and in which Donal played leading roles.
